Acknowledgement of Country

A close-up photograph of two hands, one from a lighter-skinned person and one from a darker-skinned person, both holding and pouring bright red soil. The soil is falling from the top hand into the bottom hand. The background is a blurred natural setting with green foliage and a clear blue sky. The text "Statement of reconciliation" is overlaid in white on the right side of the image.

Evaluation

Think about your students

Bring two or three students to mind, ideally students who are quite different from each other.

- What are you here for?
- What would you like to understand better?
- What strengths, interests or moments of connection should stay visible?

Student voice

What did you notice?

- What stayed with you?
- What would you like to understand more deeply?

Neurodiversity and neurodivergence

Neurodiversity is the whole picture.

Neurotypical and neurodivergent describe brain patterns within neurodiversity.

Autism is one expression of that diversity.

Neurodiversity affirming

Differences are not deficits

Acknowledging different ways of knowing, doing, being and belonging

All people have strengths and experience challenges

There is no right or wrong way to think,
learn or behave

Everyone experiences and interacts with the world differently

The social model

Use an environment-first lens:

Look for barriers in places, tasks, routines and expectations

Ask what can change around the student

Include the student's communication and experience when judging access

Review whether the change makes participation more workable

Look again at school

School routines reflect ideas about participation and learning. Consider:

- What is school for?
- Who is school for?
- How do students learn?
- Whose ways of communicating, moving and participating are treated as expected?

Discussion

Choose one familiar routine or decision.

- Which assumptions shape it?
- Who can access it easily?
- Where might the environment create a barrier?
- How could curiosity change the next response?

Discuss systems and routines, not identifiable students or colleagues.

Disability Standards for Education (DSE) 2005

Autism as difference

Dynamic disability

A student's access and support needs may change with the task, environment, relationships and available capacity.

Fluctuating capacity

Today's workshop

- 1 Use a neurodiversity-affirming approach
  - 2 Understand Autistic experience
  - 3 Notice experience across the school day
  - 4 Design more accessible learning environments
  - 5 Work in partnership
